

Bubbles the Helpful Whale

the Helpful Whale

A StorySprout Press Book

Deep in the sparkling blue ocean lived a little whale named Bubbles.
Bubbles was small, but she had a very big heart.

Every morning, Bubbles would swim through the Coral Kingdom. She loved to help her friends.

First, she met Finley the Clownfish. Finley's home in the anemone was full of tangled seaweed.

"Don't worry, Finley! I can help!" Bubbles said. She used her soft fins to sweep away the seaweed.

Next, she saw Captain Kelp. The reef was very busy, and all the fish were swimming in different directions!

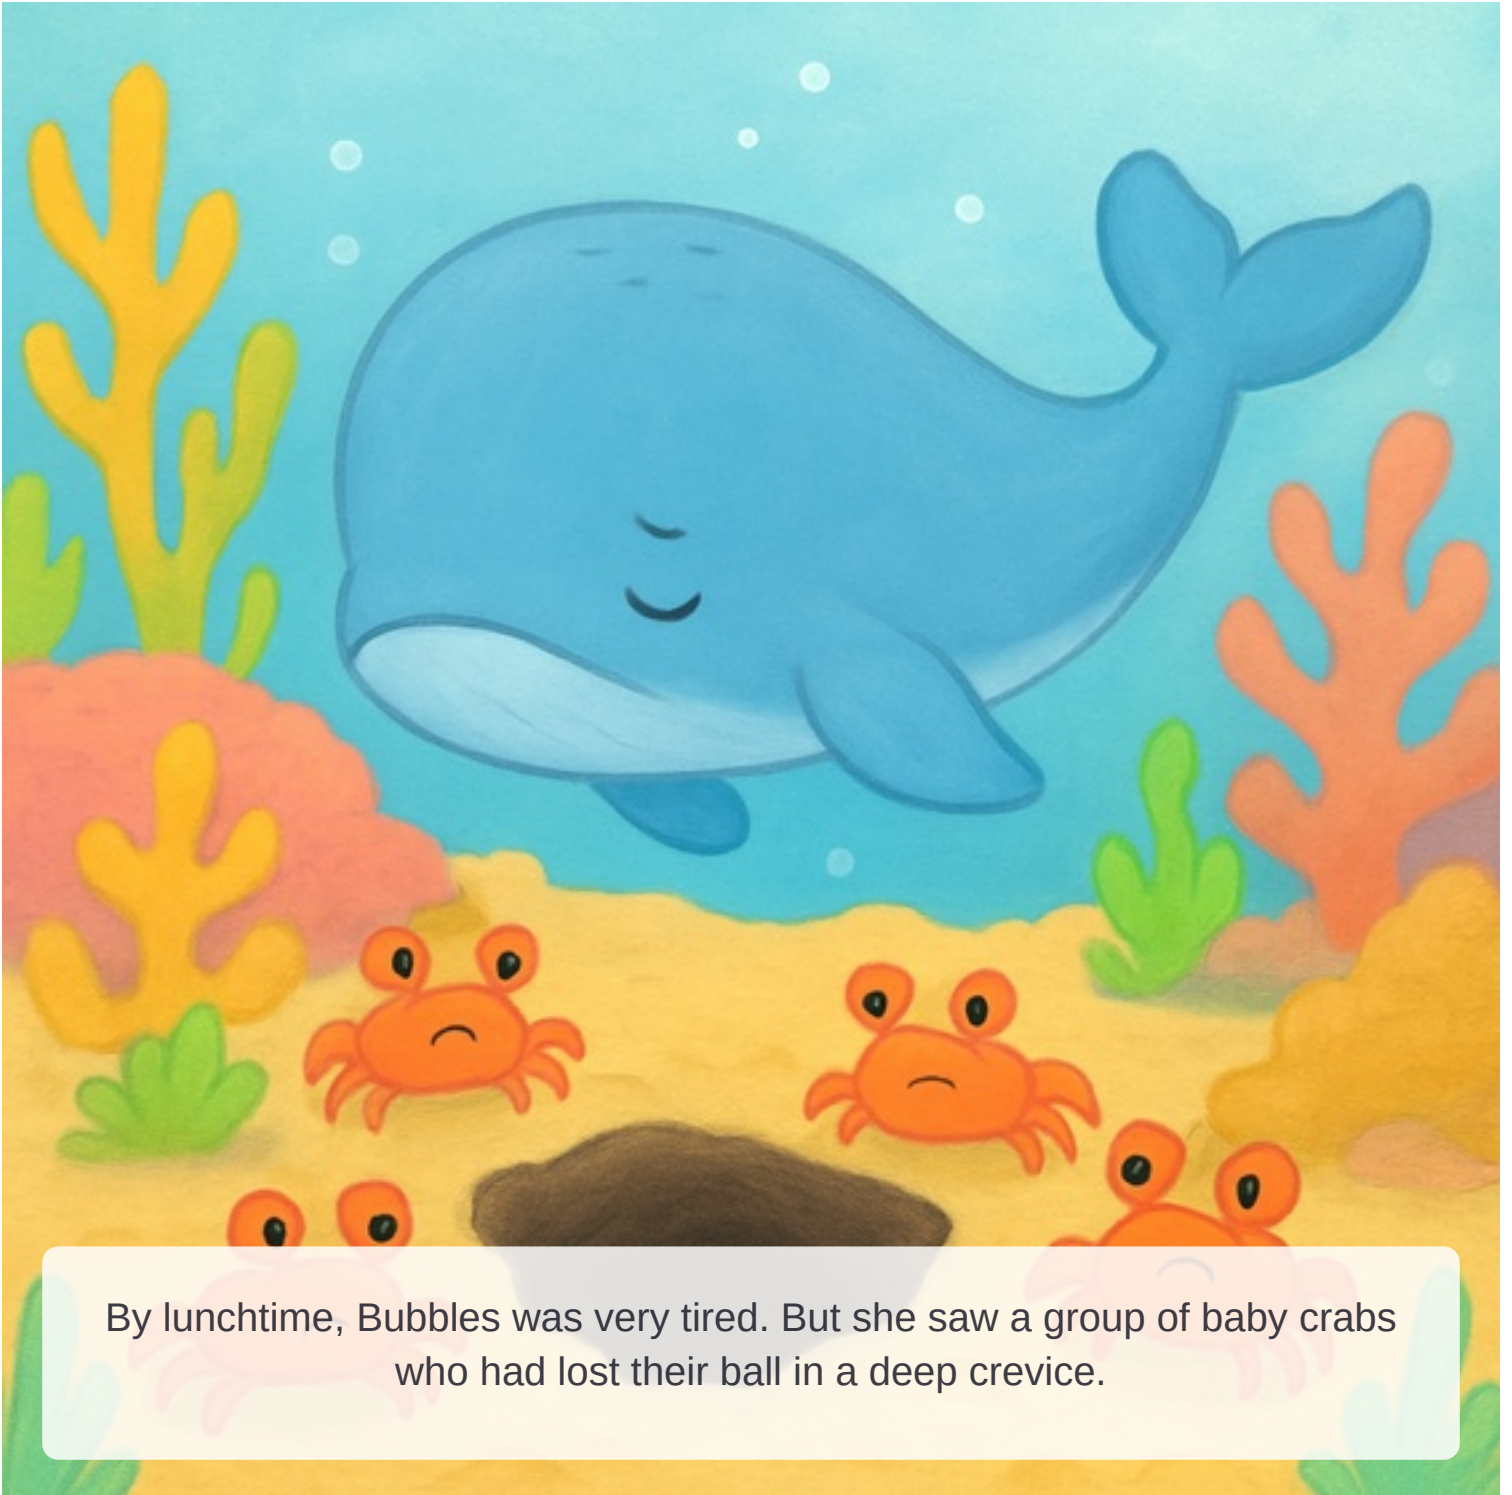

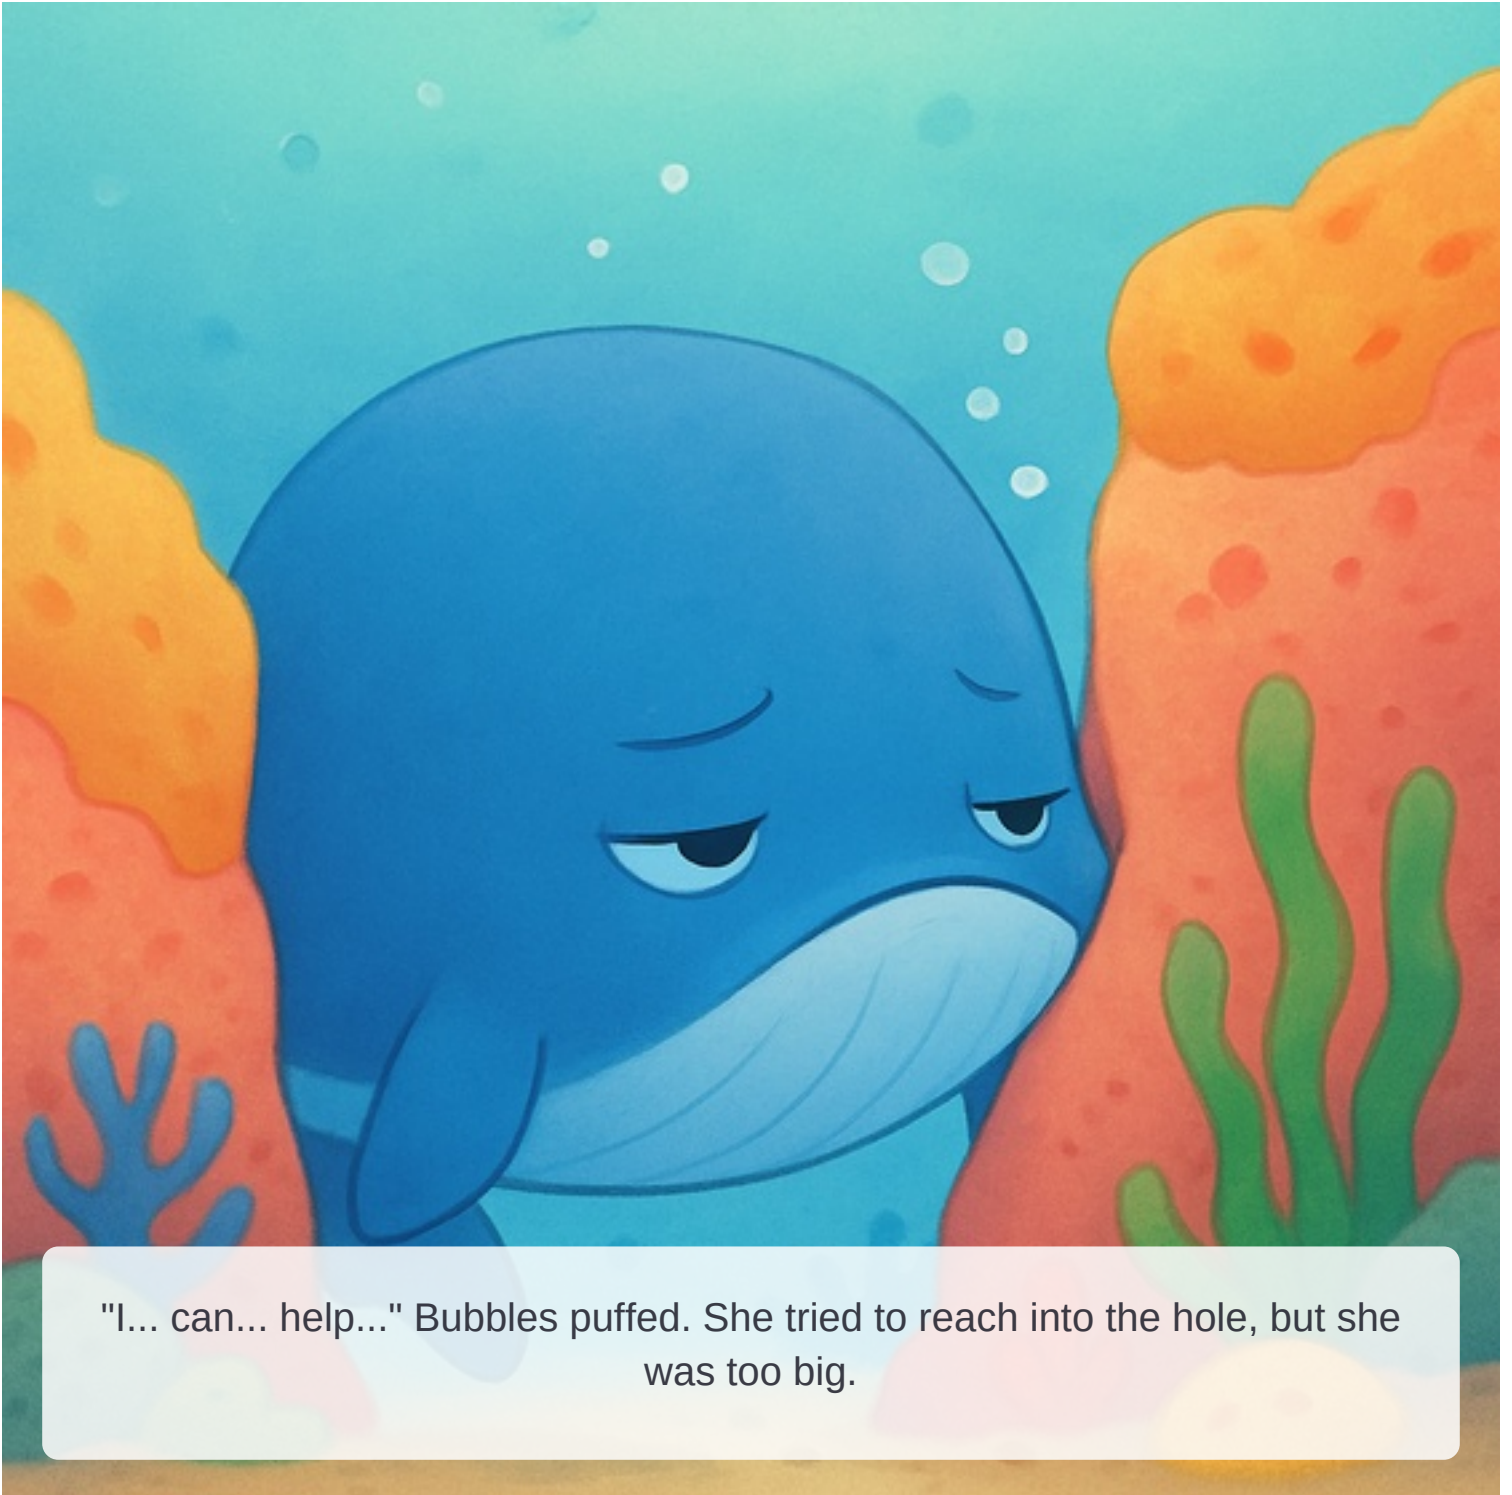

Then Bubbles found Shelly the Sea Turtle. Shelly was trying to move a heavy rock to reach some tasty sea-grapes.

OOF! Bubbles gave the rock a gentle nudge with her nose. It rolled right over!

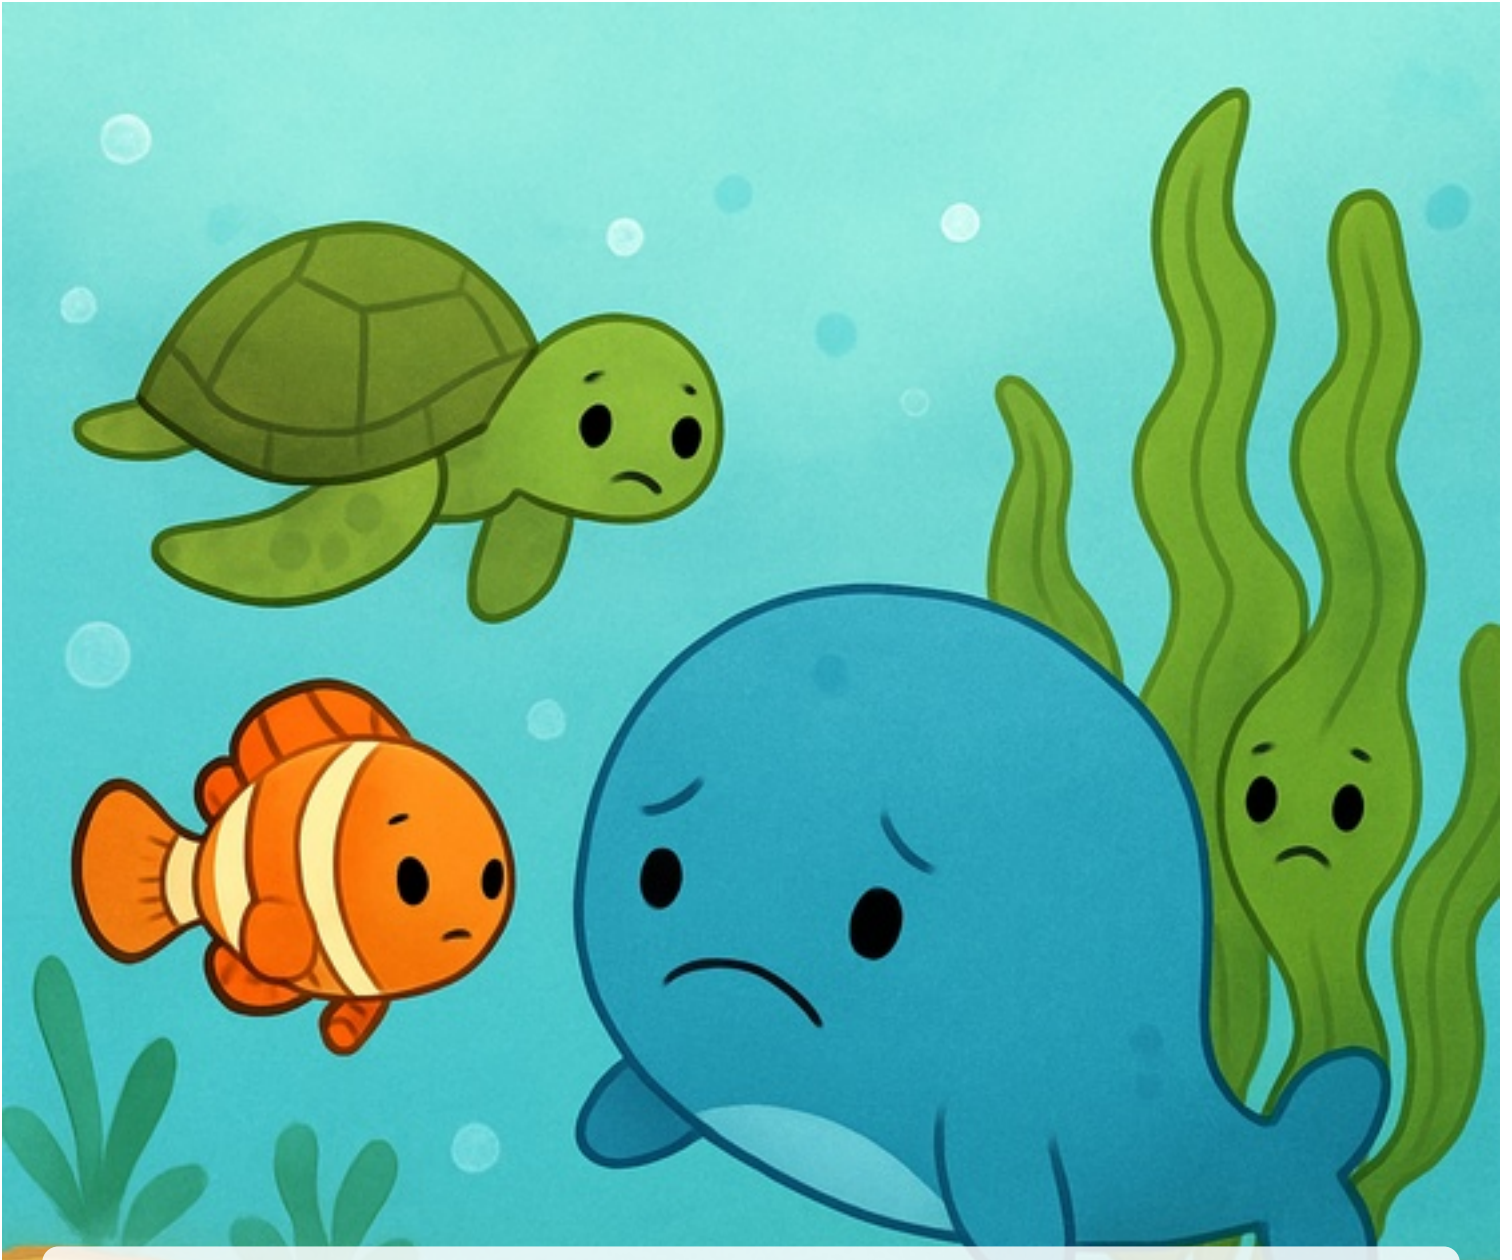

By lunchtime, Bubbles was very tired. But she saw a group of baby crabs who had lost their ball in a deep crevice.

"I... can... help..." Bubbles puffed. She tried to reach into the hole, but she was too big.

She tried and tried, but her fins were too sore. She couldn't do it all by herself.

Finley, Shelly, and Captain Kelp saw Bubbles looking sad. They swam over to her.

"What's wrong, Bubbles?" Finley asked. "I'm too tired to help," Bubbles whispered. "And I'm too big for this hole."

Shelly smiled her wise turtle smile. "Bubbles, you have helped us all morning. Now, let us help you!"

"Teamwork makes the dream work!" Captain Kelp shouted. He used his long fronds to steady Finley.

Finley was small and fast. He darted into the crevice and grabbed the lost ball.

Shelly used her strong shell to block the current, making it easy for Finley to swim back out.

POP! Finley came out with the ball. The baby crabs cheered and danced!

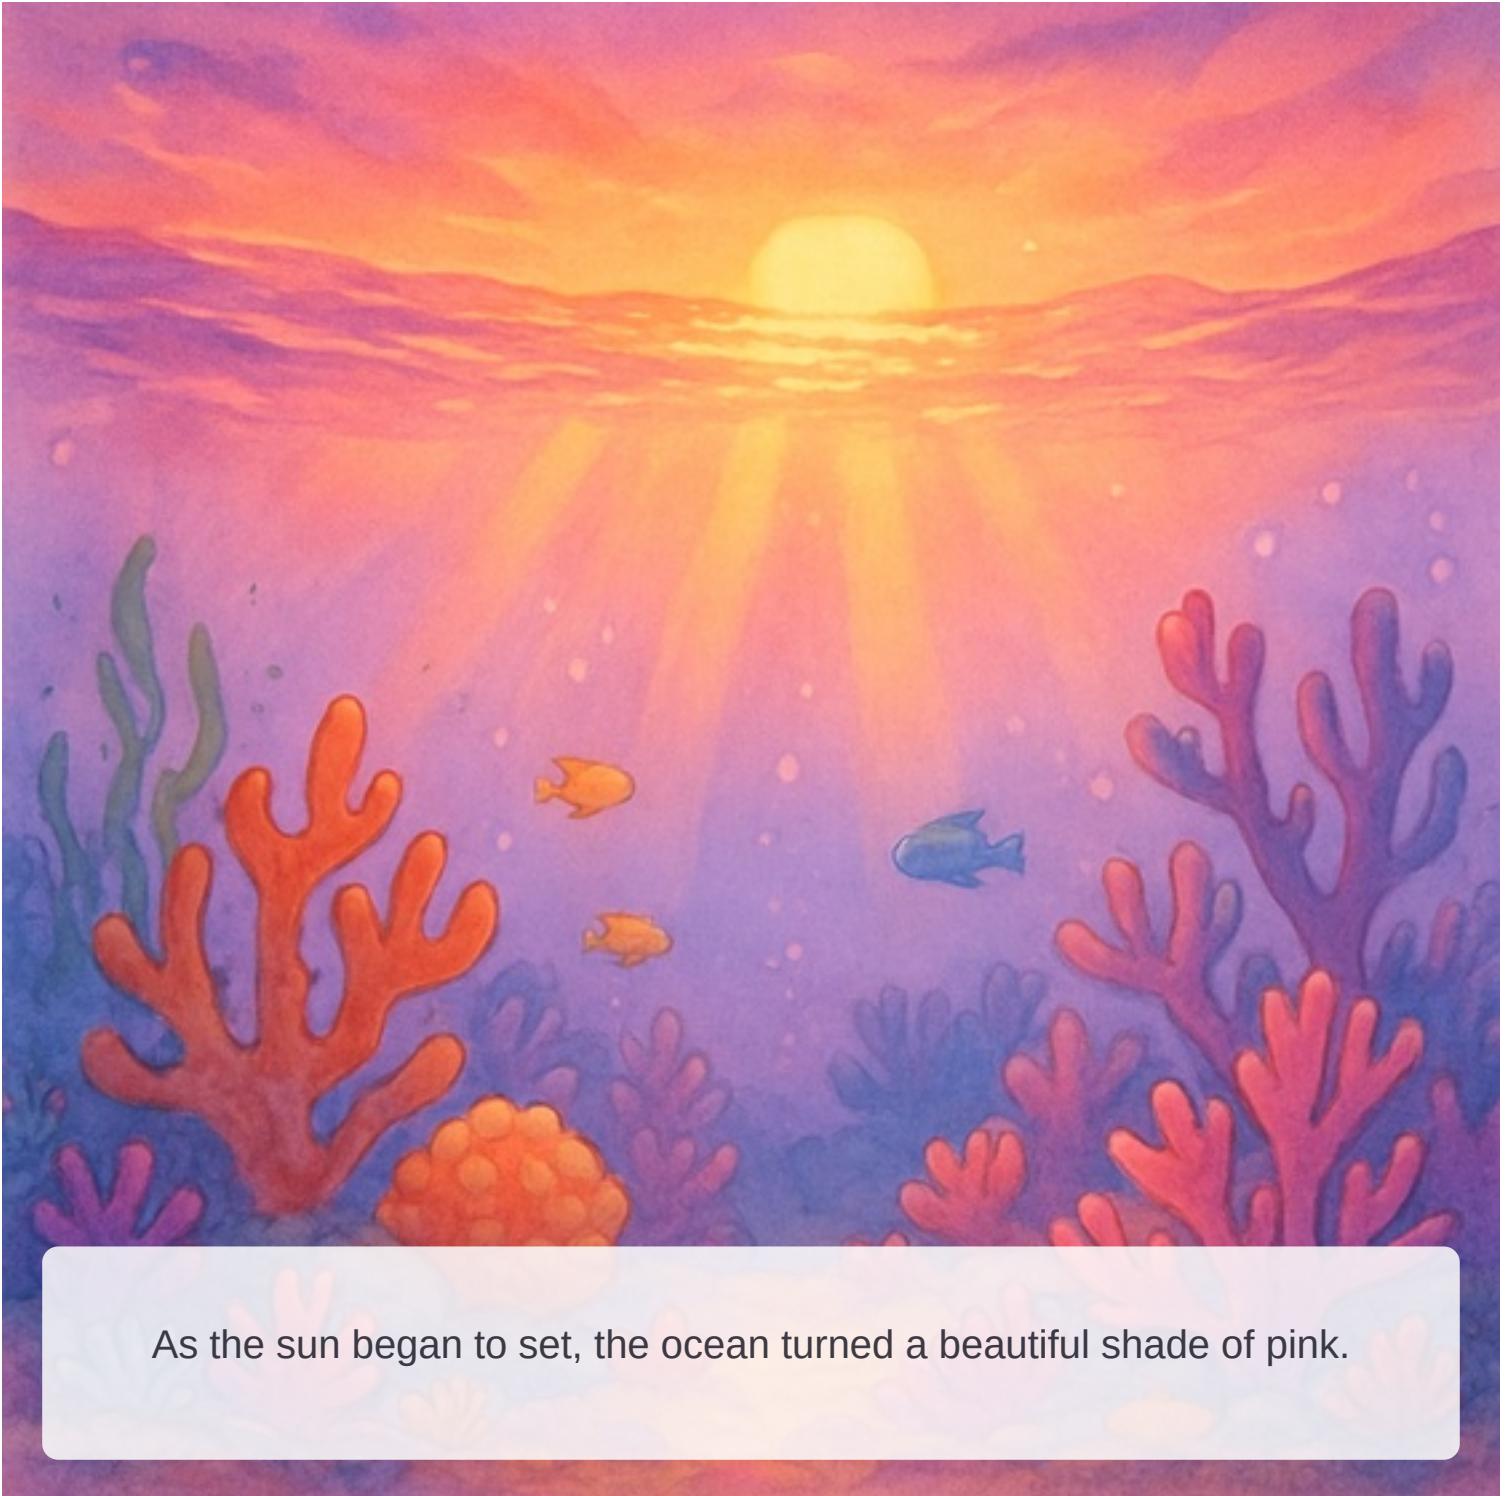

Bubbles realized something important. "Helping is great," she said, "but helping together is even better!"

That afternoon, the friends worked as a team to clean the whole reef. It was much faster and more fun!

Bubbles didn't feel tired anymore because she wasn't doing it all alone.

As the sun began to set, the ocean turned a beautiful shade of pink.

Bubbles blew one last heart-shaped bubble into the twilight. "Goodnight, friends," she hummed. "See you tomorrow for more adventures!"

About the Story

Bubbles the young whale loves to help everyone in the ocean, but she learns that teamwork makes helping even better! A heartwarming story about friendship and knowing when to ask for help.

Ages 2-6 | StorySprout Press

