

BENNY THE BUS

A StorySprout Press Book

The sun was just peeking over the hills when Benny the Bus woke up.
Yawn! His headlights blinked open.

Dan checked Benny's tires. Thump, thump! He checked Benny's oil. Dip, dip! Benny felt strong and sturdy.

"Everything looks great!" Dan said, giving Benny a final polish. Benny's yellow paint sparkled in the light.

Benny rolled out of the depot. Vroom, vroom! "Beep beep! Here comes the school bus!" he sang.

The neighborhood was quiet and still. Benny knew exactly where to go. He loved his morning route.

At the first stop, Benny saw Mia. She was holding her purple backpack very tightly.

Benny pulled up to the curb. Hiss-swish! His doors opened wide like a big, welcoming hug.

"Don't be nervous, Mia," Benny seemed to say with a soft hum. Mia stepped inside and saw the comfy seats.

Benny's stop sign arm popped out. Click-clack! It told all the other cars to wait while Mia got settled.

Next stop was Liam. He hopped onto the bus with his green toy dinosaur.
"Rawr!" said the dinosaur.

"Good morning, Liam! Good morning, Dinosaur!" Benny hummed as they rolled along.

More stops and more friends! Soon, Benny was full of happy chatter and silly songs.

The children sang, "The wheels on the bus go round and round!" Benny's wheels turned happily in time with the song.

Finally, they arrived at the big brick school. "School is an adventure too!"
Benny cheered with a beep.

The children hopped off, one by one. "Bye, Benny! See you later!" they called.

While the children were in class, Benny waited in the big parking lot. He rested his engine and watched the birds.

The sun moved across the sky. Benny felt the warm breeze on his mirrors.
He was ready to bring his friends home.

SCHOOL

The school bell rang! Ding-dong! The children came running out, full of stories about their day.

Benny picked everyone up. The ride home was even noisier than the morning ride!

Benny dropped off Liam and his dinosaur. He dropped off Mia and her purple backpack. "See you tomorrow!"

Benny rolled back to the depot as the sky turned orange and pink. He was tired, but his heart was full.

Depot Dan was waiting. "Great job, Benny," he said. Benny closed his headlight eyes and fell fast asleep.

About the Story

Join Benny the friendly school bus on the best day of the year - the first day of school! From picking up nervous Mia to the noisy ride home, Benny proves that a friendly bus makes every adventure better.

BENNY
THE BUS

Ages 2-6 | StorySprout Press

