

LEO

the Light-Up Firefly

A Story Sprout Press Book

When the sun went down over the Whisper Meadow, the magic began.

Blink! Flash! Glow! All the fireflies started their nighttime dance.

at's wrong, Leo?" asked Luna, zipping down beside him. Her light was as bright as a diamond

"I'm broken, Luna," Leo whispered. "I don't have a light like everyone else."

e Beetle waved an antenna. "Everyone has something special, Leo. Maybe your light is ju

"Let's ask Grandfather Glow," Luna suggested. They flew toward the Great Mushroom.

Grandfather Glow sat on top of the tallest mushroom. He listened to Leo's story.

at flashes is for finding friends," the old firefly said. "But there are many kinds of light in the

Leo still felt sad. As they flew home, they heard a tiny, shivering sound.

It was Barnaby the Baby Bunny. He was lost in the thorns and very scared.

"We'll help you!" cried the other fireflies. They flew into the bushes, flashing their bright light.

"Stop!" Leo cried. "You're scaring him!" Leo landed right in front of the bunny dn't try to flash. Instead, he thought about a warm, cozy campfire. He started to hum a soft Slowly, Leo's tail began to shine. It wasn't a flash. It was a steady, warm, golden glow.

as like a tiny nightlight. Barnaby the Bunny stopped shivering. He looked at Leo and felt s Follow me," Leo said gently. He stayed close to the ground, lighting the way through the grass.

Bella the Beetle helped move the leaves. "Go this way, Barnaby!" she called Soon, they found the bunny's burrow. His mother was waiting for him.

her fireflies watched from above. "Leo's light stayed on!" Luna cheered. "He has a lantern a warm glow in his heart. He wasn't broken at all. He had a special light that could save t

About the Story

Leo the firefly can't flash like the others, but he discovers he has a special steady lantern-light that saves the day. A story about being different and finding your own superpower.

Ages 2-6 | StorySprout Press

StorySprout Press